Captain Cozmic of Planet Patrol in "Space Adventure" mini web-series created by John P. Funk. John explains that the inspiration for his fun filled action packed Space Adventure cartoon was born out of his love for the Apollo Space Program of the 1960's, 70's and the classic films and TV shows of that era.

John uses real miniatures and model inventions that he made from scratch in similar fashion to the spaceships, landscapes and sets created for the original Star Wars films. John incorporates LED lighting and electronics making his models real Special Effects miniatures.

John then precisely photographs every model, figure and set location and photoshop's them into a format in which he can then renders into 3D Studio combining 3D FX graphics thus giving his show a unique look that is a testament to his skills as a visual artist, filmmaker and storyteller. John also composes the Scores & Soundtracks, Produces the Audio (Voice Over and Sound FX) all from his apartment based visual effects production company "CozmicFunk Studio" located in Central Austin, Texas.

^{Exciting}
Captain Cozmic was on patrol when a Solar flare Disrupted the Magnetic field of his Home Planet, leaving him & his ship into a severe Electrical Phase that resulted in his acquiring unique powers.

His Home Planet was Destroyed, But he somehow managed to survive in Stasis in his ship till being pulled into the Gravity field of Planet Command. Upon his awakening, he discovered he was the best of his race & with his newly realized powers - he made a vow to protect all beings from Danger.
